About The International Ferro Alloys Conference

Indian Ferro Alloy Conference (IFAC) is back after a hiatus of three years. Production and consumption Much has happened in-between though. Covid struck in end-2019. Ferro alloys production and consumption ebbed and flowed with India's crude steel production which dropped to 102 mnt in FY2021 but recovered to 118 mnt in FY2022. India's ferro alloy production, against a preCovid (2019)-level of 7.31 mnt, plunged to 4.53 mnt in 2020, recouping to 6.19 mnt in 2021. But the post-Covid economic revival led to a sudden spurt in power demand while generation fell short. Resultantly, gas and coal prices spiralled from middle of 2021, impacting smelters. Power comprises almost 30% of the cost of a ferro alloy unit. Russia-Ukraine war impact However, the Russia-Ukraine war offered exports solace. In 2021, Russia exported around 0.86 mnt of ferro alloys, the bulk of it to EU. Ukraine too exported 0.58 mnt. But, with supplies disrupted, the high energy costs persisted, forcing EU smelters to curtail output, helping Indian smelters reap export benefits. But what lies ahead? The high energy tariffs will persist for some time. However, if domestic crude steel production sustains last fiscal's momentum, ferro alloys consumption will remain buoyant.

IFAC 2022, organised by The Indian Ferro Alloy Producers Association (IFAPA), along with Marketing and Media Partner 'SteelMint' is back after three years with its thought provoking interaction, networking of knowledge and ideas at the most spectacular and sought after destination - GOA, with mersmerising entertainment, food and drinks at the lavish settings of Taj Resort and Convention Centre, Goa

In 2018, IFAPA rebranded its trade conference as International Ferro Alloys Conference 2018, which exceeded the expectations of the industry stalwarts and was one of most successful conferences globally, only after INFACON with over 350 delegates from 10 nations participating.

IFAC 2019, was an even greater success with over 500 delegates participating from over 20 countries

About IFAPA:

IFAPA, was founded in 1961 as an independent noble body representing the Bulk & Noble Ferro Alloys manufacturers spread across the country. IFAPA completes 61 years of its successful journey in July 2022 with a growing member count from 5 to a current total of 80. Ever since its inception, IFAPA has been spearheading the growth of the Ferro Alloys Industry in India, serving as an active interface between the industry and the government to discuss and determine the needs of the industry and its solutions, stepping up productively and standardizing norms. At the same time, IFAPA has facilitated global representation of India's potential in the field to pave the way for new business opportunities.

About SteelMint:

SteelMint is a premier price reporting agency and market intelligence provider of the Indian and global iron and steel industry with 600+ commodity price assessments across 30+ countries.
